JUNEAU

Perched on a thin strip of land at the mouth of Gold Creek, Juneau is arguably one of America's most beautiful state capitals, with the looming summits of Mt. Juneau and Mt. Roberts providing a gorgeous backdrop. Once an integral part of Alaska's Gold Rush, the city now boasts a mixture of natural and manmade attractions. In fact, there's so much to do and see here that Princess offers no less than 30 different excursions in and around Juneau - including the chance to walk on a glacier.

SKAGWAY

This "Gateway to the Klondike" watched as countless fortune-seekers passed on its streets as they headed to the Chilkoot and White Pass Trails during the heyday of Alaska's Gold Rush. Today, you can still feel like a prospector in Skagway, as you walk along its rustic boardwalks and frontier-style storefronts. With only 750 residents, this cozy town lies at the head of the Lynn Canal and offers a pleasant respite from the hustle and bustle of most cities. The weather is much different - and drier - here compared to the rest of southeastern Alaska, as it gets an average of just 22 inches of precipitation each year.

TRACY ARM

Located 50 miles southeast of Juneau, the awe-inspiring Tracy Arm is sure to enhance your glacier-viewing adventure. With our Inside Passage cruise, you'll sail past snowcapped mountains, dazzling waterfalls and steep granite canyon walls that disappear into deep and narrow fjords. From the upper reaches of College Fjord and the splendor of Glacier Bay to the sites at Tracy Arm, leave it to Princess to offer you a front-row seat to one of the most magnificent views on Earth.

KETCHIKAN

This southern-most Alaskan port of call is known as "Alaska's First City" because it's the first major community travelers come to as they travel north. Founded as a fishing camp, Ketchikan is built on steep hillsides and is billed as the salmon capital of the world. A quaint village, the town is just three miles long and three blocks wide. With fishing boats sailing in and float planes ascending from the water, this seaside town is bustling with activity.
