

AbstractID: 14647 Title: Preparing for the Future: What You Need to Know to Become a Qualified Medical Physicist

Please join the SPASC committee for another exciting student lead meeting. In this year's meeting we will be reporting what you need to know for your future as upcoming medical physicists. This includes information on the latest CAMPEP accreditation for graduate students and residents. As well as information about future student events.

This year's event will include a guest speaker which will talk about some of the latest developments in Medical Physics, and information on the future of medical physics. (Speaker TBA) This session will conclude with question and answer session.